

We are Govanhill Voices

A donations funded, open access, community choir meeting weekly at Daisy Street Community Centre to sing an array of folk, world, pop and other styles in a capella arrangements.

We're seeking a new song leader to guide us further on our singing adventures.

If you're currently at a loose end on a Thursday night (7:30-9:20pm, + optional pub time) and have some experience in arranging for a Capella singers who learn by ear and would like to gain more, perhaps this is for you?

We think the opportunity might suit someone who:

- Is interested in a range of musical styles
- Has some experience of arranging and teaching for singers learning by ear but would like to gain more and, would be able to lead the group in some public performance (i.e. Christmas songs at the local library or the odd springtime festival)
- Has an interest in devising and teaching a variety of arrangements drawing on different musical styles.

We can offer:

A group of enthusiastic singers, willing to experiment and eager to learn new repertoire.

- A friendly atmosphere, complete with bad jokes and tea-time biscuits.
- A reasonable salary (we're working on improving this)

If you think that this might be of interest to you please do get in touch!

You can hear some of the singing we've done previously here:

And you can contact us here with questions, clarifications and details of the application process: govanhillvoices@gmail.com and we'll get back to you a.s.a.p.

We are working towards having a new, regular, song leader in place by early 2019...
And we'd love to hear from you!
